David Cullen is a Wealth Associate and joined Seventy2 Capital in 2022. His responsibilities include account opening, reporting, asset transfers, fund disbursements, and other client operations. He is currently working toward his Series 7 and 66 registrations.

David is originally from the Pittsburgh area and attended the University of Pittsburgh, earning a major in Finance and a minor in Chemistry. Following graduation, he worked in client service at PNC Private Bank and, more recently, served ultra-high-net-worth clients at Dyson Capital Advisors. His experience across the financial industry is represented by the sharp skillset and commitment he brings to the Bethesda team.

David currently resides in Washington, D.C. and in his free time enjoys traveling, cooking, watching NBA basketball, and exploring new restaurants in and around the DC metro area. Additionally, he is an avid Pittsburgh Steelers fan.
